Interviews Show Student Opinion Concerning McGill Annual

Editorial Board Appointed At Daily Banquet Tuesday

J. A. NOLAN, Editor-in-Chief, was appointed Editor-in-Chief of the McGill Daily for the coming year at the Daily's annual banquet. Last Tuesday afternoon, editors and reporters of the McGill Daily convened in the Union to bring the reportorial session to a fitting end. Lindsay H. Place, Law '35 and outgoing Editor-in-Chief, acted as chairman. Past Editors were called upon to speak of the Daily of their day. The staff were praised for the way they co-operated in the promotion of the charity campaigns and conducted the various elections.

John H. McDonald, was made Managing Editor, Philip F. Vineberg, News Editor, and Douglas A. Amaron, Sports Editor. New appointments as Associate Editors were Lewis N. Poch, Exchange Editor, and Sydney G. Cooper, Joyce L. Marshall, Fraser N. Gurd, Leonard M. Picard, Allan M. Anderson, Thomas H. Montgomery, C. Ronald Stephen, Eben C. Cutler, Frederick W. Price, Abraham Gruber was appointed to the new post of Sports Feature Editor, and Arthur Bloomfield was made Feature Editor.

The full list of promotions and awards is as follows: John A. Nolan, Editor-in-Chief (gold ring); John H. McDonald, Managing Editor (silver pin); Philip F. Vineberg, News Editor (silver pin); Douglas A. Amaron, Sports Editor (silver pin). The Managing Board is to consist of the editor-in-chief, the managing editor, and the news editor.

The following received awards but no promotions: H. G. Perelmutter, (silver pin); W. M. Chamard, (silver pin); Gertrude Wasserman, (bronze pin); Judith Seidel, (bronze pin); Peter Fuller, (bronze pin).

Council Elected By Peace Organization

Anti-War League Holds Last Meeting For This Year

Last Tuesday the Anti-War League brought its activities for this year to a close with a business and election meeting. The Council elected included Jack Lovelace, Ken Baker, Bertha Albert, Charles Lapitsky and Ken Cameron.

In the discussion which followed, it was pointed out that the work of the League should have been more intensive rather than extensive. In the future study groups will be established to examine closely world problems. During the summer the League plans to set up a "Current Events" Group to study phases of existing political situations. For those unable to attend this group there will be a periodical circular out to all members.

Executive Selected By Junior Debaters

Morton Godine Elected President — Ivor Williams Vice-President

At the final meeting of the Junior Debating League, held yesterday afternoon, the following officers were elected to head next year's executive: President—Morton Godine Vice-President—Ivor Williams
The other member of the executive, the League's treasurer, will be appointed in the fall, and is to be chosen from next year's freshman class.
John McLeish, honorary president, will remain in office until next fall also, when next year's officers will choose a new honorary president. The main event of yesterday's meeting was a discussion in which four of the club's members took part.

Reford Challenge And Papineau Cups Goal Of Debaters

Contenders For Cup Will Speak Without Preparation

OFFICERS ELECTED

Clarence Gross and Melbourne Doig Meet For Talbot Papineau Cup

ACTIVITIES of the Debating Union will come to a close for this year tonight when Prize Night will be held at 8.15 in the Union Ballroom. On this occasion three trophies will be competed for: the Talbot-Papineau Cup, the Reford Challenge Cup, and the inter-class debating trophy. The final meeting of the Debating Union was held in the Music Room yesterday afternoon, when the past year's activities were outlined and officers elected for the coming session.

The winner of the Reford Challenge Cup will be determined by an impromptu debate the subject of which will be "Resolved that Canada is Uncivilized." The first speaker for the affirmative, who is also responsible for the rebuttal, is Arthur Marshall, and the second speaker of the affirmative is Allan Anderson. The negative side is Henry Schaffhausen as first speaker and Eli Kelloway as second speaker.

Cross Versus Doig
The winning of the Talbot-Papineau Cup will be contested by Clarence Gross and Melbourne Doig, the former upholding the affirmative and the latter the negative of the resolution "That entrance to universities be restricted." Gross will be given seven minutes to state his case, after which Doig will speak for ten minutes, followed by three minutes rebuttal by Gross.

Inter-class debating will also come to a close when Arts '37, represented by Charles Lapitsky and John Hodgson, will meet either the third or fourth year on the subject "Resolved that student activities are training ground for professional careers."

Officers Elected
At the meeting of the Debating Union yesterday the following officers were elected: Secretary, Alfred Pick; Junior Treasurer, Clarence Gross; Junior Officers, Allan Anderson, Morton Godine, Leon Smart, Eli Kelloway.
In reviewing this season's activities, Phil Vineberg, the secretary, mentioned the three international debates, the Mock Parliament, the radio debates, and the beginners' nights. Tentative plans for next year were made. A bilingual debate with the University of Montreal was suggested, as well as increased debating activities with other Canadian universities. Ken Baker, retiring president, stressed the need of securing the interest of members of other faculties besides those of Arts and Law. A discussion concerning future relations between the Junior Debating League and the Debating Union was left to be decided in the autumn.

Del Doig, President-elect, offered a vote of thanks to the outgoing executive, and Ken Baker moved a vote of thanks to Colonel and Mrs. Bovey for their interest in the Debating Union and particularly for the service which Colonel Bovey has rendered.

Arts Magazine Will Appear This Month

Larger Publication Predicted For This Year

On March 27th the Arts Undergraduate Magazine is expected to leave the press. This year's edition is reported to be larger and containing material all from the pens of undergraduate writers. A new cover and cover-design has been adopted for this issue, and another departure is noted in that a number of sketches have been added to relieve the effect of solid pages of print.

Prizes have been donated for contributions by the Executive of the Magazine, the judges being Professors Hendel and Files. Awards were made to Joyce Marshall, Bruce Small and Allan Anderson. In the hundred pages which make up the new and enlarged Magazine, there are over twenty items which should be of considerable interest to the reader—short stories, articles and poems.

The price of the Arts Undergraduate Magazine is twenty-five cents. There are only five hundred copies printed, and it is reported that a number of advance subscriptions have been already received.

Stevens To Address Arts Undergraduates

ALL who attend the Arts Undergraduate Banquet in the Queen's Hotel at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening will be privileged to hear the Honourable H. H. Stevens, who has been prevailed upon to act as guest speaker for the occasion. Mr. Stevens will discuss some aspect of the recent Mass Buying Inquiry.

Phil Vineberg will propose the Toast to the Alma Mater, to which Dean Corbett will reply. The toast to the graduates will be proposed by Dr. Hendel and responded to by Louis Johnson. The entertainment will be supplied by George Falle at the piano and Ken Macmillan and Fred Owen in several negro skills.
Dean Woodhead will introduce the speaker and Arnold Johnson, President of the Arts Undergraduate Society, will move the vote of thanks.

Fate Of French Democratic Policy Topic Of Papers

Political Economy Club To Elect Next Year's Officers Tonight

DEMOCRATIC government's future in France will be discussed this evening at the final meeting of the Political Economy Club, at 8.30, in the Smoking Room of the Arts Building, when George Owen, Law '37, and E. Harrison Clark, graduate student, will deliver papers on this subject. Moreover, this being the last meeting of the year, election of officers for the coming year will be held.

Both Owen and Clark have been recipients of the Guy Drummond Scholarship in Economics and French, and both have, as a result, spent a year in France. Clark having returned just a few weeks ago. Consequently, both have an intimate knowledge of the economic and political situations in the Third Republic.

Democratic government in France has always been of a very unstable nature. Ever since the inception of the Third Republic in 1871, the country has been subject to innumerable ministerial crises and frequent changes in government. The coming of the world-wide depression in 1929, the existence of recurring governmental deficits, has tended to accentuate the instability of the government.

The fact that France is one of a few countries left on the gold standard has subjected it to an agonizing period of deflation, with consequent depression and business stagnation of a severe nature than in other countries.

The first speaker will diagnose the situation and point out what the future will likely be for France. As this is the last meeting of this session, members of the staff have all signified their intention of being present. The usual discussion and refreshments will follow the business of the evening.

Annual Dinner For Commerce Faculty

This Friday night the Annual Commerce Banquet will be held at the Teutonia Club. The address is 1177 Mountain Street.

Col. Bovey will be speaker of the evening and proceedings will also be enlivened by the presence and performance of several members of the Red and White Revue, including Jack Waud, Warren Conway, John Gibbon, Lolo Cooke, Margaret Stewart and Betty MacLeod.

Tickets may be obtained from members of the Faculty for sixty cents.

Biologists Gather

The Biological Society will hold its last meeting for the year on Tuesday, March 26th, at 5.00 p.m. in the Biological Building. The meeting is for the sole purpose of electing an executive for the coming year. Nominations for the positions of President, Vice-President, and Secretary, who is a woman, must be handed in by the 26th at the latest to either the superintendent of the Biological Building or to one of the executive of the Society. These nominations must contain the name of the proposer and that of a second.

Speaker Denounces Warlike Tendencies In German Policy

H. Carl Goldenberg Addressed Sherbrooke Audience

CO-OPERATION NEEDED

Armament Makers Declared Largely Responsible For Spirit of Nationalism

SHERBROOKE, March 19. — "The spirit of Nazism and the spirit of war, which are inseparable, constitute together the greatest threat to civilization," declared H. Carl Goldenberg, sessional lecturer in Economics and Political Science, in addressing a public meeting here tonight.

"Hitler's latest move in unilaterally denouncing the military clauses of the Treaty of Versailles, brings us back to the pre-war era of militarism and insecurity," stated Mr. Goldenberg. He said that peace is impossible in an atmosphere of exaggerated nationalism and racialism—an atmosphere promoted by the international armament manufacturers.

Enmity Promoted
"These merchants of death," said the speaker, "are promoting fear and hatred for their private gain, and through the control of newspapers, they influence statesmen and parliamentarians, and are preparing another blood-bath for civilization. They know no national boundaries. They are internationalists; they sell their weapons of destruction to everybody; they are a threat to mankind. The private manufacturer of armaments must therefore be wiped out, and the nationalization of the armament industry must immediately be brought about in every country."

"It is remarkable how all nations complain about unbalanced budgets, which force them to cut down relief to starving millions of unemployed, and yet they are able to find billions for munitions, to fill the pockets of armament manufacturers."

Mr. Goldenberg pointed out that Fascist propaganda has worked well with the propaganda of the armament ring. "Even our press in Canada has been taken in by these propagandists. I can cite cases where individuals using false names and purporting to be what they are not, have been reported in Canada's newspapers in slinging the praises of Nazi Germany. These individuals come here only to stir up strife. We must beware of them."

The speaker analyzed the current international negotiations for disarmament and peace, and described Nazism as the villain in the play. "Recently, the Rome Agreement entered into between France and Italy guaranteed the independence of Austria, but Hitler doesn't like it. It interferes with his plans for the expansion of the Reich. Then, at London, France and England offered terms of equality to Germany, on condition that Germany co-operate with them in agreeing to the Eastern Locarno, and in returning to the League of Nations. Again Hitler refused. He doesn't like the Eastern Locarno, because it will prevent the extension of Germany's Eastern boundary. He doesn't like Soviet Russia, which is insistent on the signing of the Eastern Pact, originally negotiated between its Foreign Commissar, Maxim Litvinoff, and the murdered French Foreign Minister, Louis Barthou. And now, on the eve of negotiations with Sir John Simon, Hitler announces a return to universal conscription, and the creation of an army of six hundred thousand men. There can be no faith in negotiations with a country like that."

Mr. Goldenberg pointed out that Hitler's latest declaration no longer means equality for Germany, but superiority. It will give Germany a larger army than that of France. Also, if Germany proceeds towards the rebuilding of its navy and the construction of submarines, the safety of Great Britain will be definitely menaced, and the menace is greater because of Germany's large air force.

"Of course, Germany alone is not to blame," added the lecturer. "The Allied Powers missed their opportunity ever since Versailles. They failed to disarm, as they had promised to do. Instead, they allowed their own petty jealousies to result in an armament race, which, with the new complications introduced by Hitler, may lead to another slaughter."

"The only hope for peace," concluded Mr. Goldenberg, "now lies in the co-operation of all nations within the League of Nations, and the institution

Approval Expressed For Continuance of Publication

IN AN ENDEAVOUR to elicit the opinions of prominent students and of the Student Society, concerning the future publication of the McGill Annual, the 'Daily' has been conducting a series of interviews, calculated to determine the general trend of thought upon the question.

To date opinions expressed have been diverse, but most agree that the Annual is of the utmost importance to McGill, and that it should not be done away with, from purely sentimental reasons for other considerations. It is also generally acknowledged that some changes must be effected if the continued publication of the Annual is to be rendered financially possible.

The discussion was precipitated a few days ago by the publication of a letter, representing the opinion of the Managing Board of the Annual, which suggested to the Student Society discontinuation of the book. The Annual now is in its thirty-eighth year of publication.

The following are some of the ideas and suggestions put forward by various students on the campus:

John Hutchins
Law student and former Council representative, said, "I don't think that the situation is as serious as it is being made out to be. It is very much over-emphasized. The Annual is in much the same position as it has been for years." He, in accord with the general sentiment, believes that the book is necessary. Queried about the influence that the faculty magazines are having upon advertising, Hutchins declared that this spring something will be done by the Council concerning advertising soliciting, and that a central controlling board will probably be organized. This would obviate most of the difficulties facing the Managing Board, he said.

Selwyn Willis
Theology 2, deplored the lack of student cooperation, declaring that he was in a position to sympathize with the Managing Board. While approving the continuance of the Annual, Willis saw that the only hope would be in the application of some remedy to the situation, though what this could be he refused to say. He too concluded with the words, "I'd hate to see the Annual dropped."

John H. MacDonald
Recently elected President of the Union House Committee, said: "There is a definite need on the campus for the Annual and I think that the present financial difficulty could be overcome if the suggestion of Dr. G. W. Halpenny is followed." Dr. Halpenny is a past Student Council president. Two years ago he proposed that the cost of the Annual be deducted from the caution money of every graduate student. "In that way," continued MacDonald, "the financial success would be ensured and a worthwhile undertaking would not suffer from unintentional lack of interest."

Club Held Elections For New Executive

At the annual meeting of the Play-ers' Club held in the Union Ballroom yesterday afternoon, the amendment to the constitution, which sets up an advisory board of past members of the club, headed by the outgoing president, to render advice backed by experience to the acting executive, was put through.

Reports on the year's activities were delivered by the President, Treasurer and Chairman of the Workshop. Howard Sjikeman, as President, expressed his satisfaction with the working of the Club in some departments during the past year, and hope for improvement in others, concluding with thanks to the members for their loyal support on all occasions.

The reports of the Treasurer, Max Roth, and of the Chairman of the Workshop, Harriet Colby, showed results which are considered extremely favourable. The Honourary President, Dr. C. W. Hendel, delivered a short congratulatory address to the Club, and the meeting proceeded to the business of electing the officers for the coming year.

Harold Weber was elected to the position of President by acclamation, taking up his duties immediately. Max Roth last year's Treasurer, was chosen as First Vice-President, and Betty Peltier as Second Vice-President. Gordon Bourne succeeded Louis Johnson as Secretary, and Ward O'Connor takes the place of Max Roth as Treasurer. Both these men were elected by acclamation. The only voting came with the elections for the position of Chairman of the Workshop, in which Charles Pheo was victorious, succeeding Harriet Colby in this position which is considered to be one of the most responsible in the Club.

Of definite sanctions against aggressors. This, alone, may outlaw the threats of war-like powers and their allies. This, alone, may prevent the mad Nazi intention of Teutonic domination of Europe. In the maintenance of this collective system for peace lies our only hope."

James Anglin
speaking as Law representative on the Student Council, made three definite points. First, that the Annual is indispensable because it provides the only complete record of student activities and life. "Sentimentally it is priceless." Secondly, that the decrease in sales is not due to any inherent fault on the part of the students who want the Annual as much as ever. Hard times and depression, according to Anglin, are the chief reasons for the decline in sales. Thirdly, he advocated the sale of the book on a commission basis. "Posting notices is not enough," he declared. In concluding, Anglin expressed the belief that apathy in the system of selling the Annual is the real reason for 'student apathy.'

John Kennedy
Commerce 3, and student representative on the Council, suggested more drastic remedies for the situation. Raise the caution money to $15 and then take the necessary money out of that, was his scheme. Kennedy, on the other hand, believes that the Annual should supercede any other considerations and that the students, if they were sufficiently interested, would make it a point of buying the book. He, too, saw a great need for the continuation of publication, describing the Annual as 'invaluable.'

Julia Moore
representing R.V.C. on the Council, was also in strong favour of continuing the Annual, but she felt that there was much to be done. "Certainly students must cooperate more if the book is to continue," she declared. She likewise felt that the Annual serves a definite purpose that cannot be filled adequately by the faculty magazines, because the book mirrors the progress of the University, as well as the more apparent activities. "The Annual comes first before any other campus magazine," was her final word.

Deborah Barbour

last year's Council representative for R.V.C., could add nothing more to the opinions already expressed by her fellow-student, other than to say that "The Arts Undergrad Magazine will never supercede the Annual." She too felt that the Annual is a necessary requisite on the campus, and that it would be missed should the Student Society decide to suspend publication.

Vacation School In French Announced

Conducted in French, Summer Session Will Include Sight-seeing

From June 27 until August 1 the 1935 session of the French Summer school will be held. During the five weeks of the course the resident students will live in an exclusively French atmosphere, being pledged to converse in French continually and to read books and newspapers in that language. Besides the classes in French language and literature, which will be divided into an elementary, intermediate, and an advanced section, a program of sight-seeing has been arranged. The school is coeducational, women students to board at the Royal Victoria College and men at Strathcona Hall.

The school this year is offering a scholarship, consisting of room, board and tuition at the French Summer school to the student man or woman in the first year in a Canadian University outside Quebec, who has obtained the highest standing in French. At the present time about two hundred students from all parts of Canada and the United States attend the school. Last year there were many representatives from McGill, and Professor du Roure, director of the school, hopes for an equally good attendance this year. Literature may be obtained on application to the French Summer School, McGill University.

Just Plain Talk

APPARENTLY it has lately become very fashionable in parliamentary circles all over Canada to investigate the activities of all so-called "reds" and alleged communists. The practice has reached such a degree of obnoxiousness that men who hold seats in the legislative houses of this country deem it their duty to ferret out the most insignificant speeches of all and sundry, and to turn the same into potent accusations of communistic or socialistic activity. Such an accusation has been just lately bandied about in the House of Commons at Ottawa, and it was cast at none other than the members of the teaching staff here at McGill.

The occasion happened to be the discussion of the formation of an All-Canadian Economic Advisory Committee. One member of the House stood up and protested against the institution of such a body on the grounds that it would of necessity include certain members of the Department of Economics at McGill, and that these men were making this university a den of radical agitation and propaganda. We at McGill do not know of any men who are violently enough radical, and who are still on the teaching staff, to warrant the above accusation. Not only that, but we think it a shame that the autonomic rights of the university which have been its prerogative from time immemorial should be curtailed in such an unseemly manner.

Viewing the whole thing from a purely objective point of view, and having naught but the welfare of the college at heart, we can say with Professor Stephen Leacock that the system of university education which existed in the Middle Ages, where the college was the intellectual sanctuary of all comers, is indeed an ideal state. We do not by any manner of means propose a reversion to that system in so far as education itself is concerned, but we should be very gratified to see some measure of academic freedom of thought and expression restored to our institutions of higher learning. After all, who is more competent to judge the "deadly evil" of the propaganda "dished out" by our professors than the Board of Governors, and if these gentlemen are not alarmed at it, we see no reason why a representative of some obscure electoral division in the province of Quebec should be, — unless, of course, he wishes to have his speeches reprinted in, and commented upon by, the press.

Electioneering

AT this time of year most clubs and societies hold their annual elections. It is also at this time of year that the inveterate office-seeker leaves his seclusion and attends the final election meeting in an attempt to be chosen to some position on the executive of the Society. If he is not elected, he immediately retires for another year.

Of course, to have any chance in the elections, he is obliged to campaign for himself, and try to inveigle some other people who also have not attended a meeting to come down and vote for him. As a result the worst man for the job is chosen, and the Society itself does not fare so well the next year.

This system is not unusual in politics, but it is too bad that students allow themselves to be mixed up with it. Consider carefully the man for whom you are voting; has he shown any interest in the Society before the elections? Is he capable of handling important executive posts and has he the experience? — these questions should be answered before each man casts his vote. If he has not followed these principles this year, he should remember them for next term.

Congratulations

ON Tuesday evening the Annual Daily Banquet was held and the promotions for the following year were made. We wish to congratulate those who will control the operation of these pages next year and to wish them all the best of luck. We also wish to thank everyone who has co-operated with us in any way during the past year, and we sincerely hope that they will do the same next year.

Graduates' Section

Editor — Miles Gordon '27

"Why Join...?"

A letter from the Chairman of the Membership Committee of the Montreal Branch.

The Editor,
Graduates' Section
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:—

As a member of the McGill Graduates' Society I have been asked the following questions: Why am I a member of the Society? Why should other McGill men join the Society?

May I be permitted to use your columns in order to answer these questions? I will endeavour to be brief.

In my case I joined the Society because for quite a few years McGill meant quite a lot to me. Looking back at my undergraduate days, I certainly had a high old time there, and right now many of my best friends are McGill graduates. Naturally I had a friendly feeling for the old place, and as a matter of course I joined the Graduates' Society. I am inclined to believe that this is the feeling with almost all new graduates, and membership statistics support this belief.

As a Society member I rather liked the "McGill News" and I have never lost my friendly feeling towards the University and towards McGill men. This feeling was not changed when I realized that McGill could do with more income. And I understood why more income might well be needed when I learned that an undergraduate costs the university considerably more than he pays in fees. This cannot be disputed, and the fact impressed me tremendously. It seemed fair that what earlier benefactors did for us we should help to do for those who follow us. The Endowment Fund gave those who could help a chance to do so, and I am sure that no one who subscribed to that Fund has ever regretted his action. When later I realized that McGill receives comparatively little federal, provincial or municipal support, I agreed that it was better so. Who wants an M.P. or an M.P.P. or an alderman to dictate or even influence McGill's teachings? So I continued to be a member and a supporter—though rather a passive supporter—of the Society.

At present the Graduates' Society seems to have come to some rough travelling, and many McGill men whether members or not are critical of its actions—or lack of them—and even of its value. The Society, perhaps, has never arranged for proper publicity of its aims, its officers, and its activities. On the other hand its members, especially in the last five years, have not shown any great interest themselves, or they could easily have obtained any and all information they desired. Apparently they were as passive as I was. Much of the criticism heard these days of the Society is fair. Much, however, is undeserved and is not constructive. The graduates responsible for the undeserved criticism remind me of the poet's lines—
"It is all very well to dissemble your love
But why did you kick me downstairs?"

However, almost any criticism is a sign of interest, and is cheerfully received for that reason alone. It is my belief that the main desire of the officers of the Society is to discover the wishes of the members, and to govern their actions accordingly.

Now for the second question: Why should other McGill men join the Society?

I believe that practically all McGill men can be given some convincing argument as to why they should join, and I suggest the following reasons:
IF they like meeting college friends and acquaintances at smokers and other functions;
IF they like receiving the McGill News and some McGill Dailies, and so hearing of McGill and of McGill men;

IF they approve of the work of the Employment Bureau and wish to see it re-opened;

IF they would like McGill men to have more voice in the government of McGill. At present 5 out of 25 governors are McGill graduates. A strong Graduates' Society would be listened to, and now, that governors will no longer hold office for life, might well cause the selection of more graduates as governors. No single voice would be heard unless perhaps it came from a generous millionaire.

IF they appreciate receiving their college education for 50 per cent or less of cost. This was made possible by past endowments; the Graduates' Endowment Fund is one way of making it possible in the future, and the majority of the Trustees of the Endowment Fund are appointed by the Graduates' Society;

IF they approve of the founding of bursaries and scholarships by which men from all parts of Canada and perhaps elsewhere could be attracted to McGill;

IF they wish to see McGill continue inde-

Are You Interested in an ANNUAL GRADUATES' DINNER?

The Executive of the Montreal Branch are anxious to obtain an expression of opinion regarding the holding of a Dinner in May by the Branch. If you are ready to support such an event, please sign and return the form below. The Executive will not proceed with plans without a definite response from the graduate body.

The Graduates' Society,
McGill University,
Montreal.

I am in favor of a Dinner being held by the Montreal Branch of the Graduates' Society—provided that the price is reasonable and an outstanding speaker is obtained—and will give it my enthusiastic support.

Class

pendent of politics and force ahead as a great national university.

All of the aims mentioned above can be attained sooner or later through a strong and active Graduates' Society. For example: another thousand continuing members today would allow for the immediate re-opening of the Employment Bureau. That in itself is sufficient reason for joining the Society. And there would still be a healthy surplus each year for transfer to the Endowment Fund, or for bursaries, or for such other use as the Society at large should decide. One thousand more members would mean all this, and there are over 2,000 McGill men right in Montreal who are not members of the Society. Is the $3.00 annual fee a stumbling block? I cannot believe it.

Yours truly,

ERIC A. CUSHING.

The Great Grads!

(Tune—John Brown's Body)

Specially written for the Smoker — of March 30.

We all went to college many, many years ago
Where of course we studied what a young man ought to know.

Learned a word of Latin—and a formula or so,
And now we're the great, great Grads.

First we took matriculation,
Then the great initiation
And a touch of education,
And now we're the great, great Grads.

Some made smells in Chemistry and now are B.Sc's,
Some were soldiers of the King and now are O.B.E's.

Some were fired at Christmas-time and now are L.L.D's,
And now they're the great, great Grads.

Some have held important stations,
Some still live upon relations,
Some (not many) make donations,
And now they're the great, great Grads.

There are Grads down in the tropics; there are Grads quite near the Pole;

A few are multi-millionaires, and many on the dole.

But all just love to listen round the Union's flowing bowl
To the tales of the great, great Grads.

And now a great oration,
Harmony and fugitation,
Make a worthy celebration
For the night of the great, great Grads.

O hear! ye men and women grads,
For five thin silver dimes
You see a Follies of McGill
Made up of simple rhymes.

And after you have viewed the show,
Included in the price
We give you coffee, bread and cake.
Please come! (Take our advice!)

THE class of R.V.C. 1934 has consented to repeat its Pageant of Women at McGill for the benefit of the Alumnae Scholarship Fund.

"Fifty Years' Hilties of Women McGillites," written and directed by Miss Elma Ferrigard, will be presented in the Common Room of the Royal Victoria College on Tuesday, March 26 at 8:30 p.m.

Supper will be served in the drawing room after the performance. Information can be had from the Secretary of the Royal Victoria College and from members of the Classes of 1934 and 1904.

Dr. Anson S. Donaldson, D.S.O., Med. '01 IN HONG KONG last Sunday the death occurred of Dr. A. S. Donaldson, M.D. 1901, medical officer on the "Empress of Japan" and Commander Surgeon of the Canadian Pacific Coast Fleet.

Born in Brockville 59 years ago, Dr. Donaldson served with distinction in the Boer War, being mentioned in despatches. He then practised in the Calgary district for many years, and on the outbreak of war in 1914 he enlisted as medical officer, becoming Colonel commanding the 1st Field Ambulance Corps, and later with the 5th Base Hospital.

Badminton Players Stage Tournament

Gammel, Lead, Kerr and Mainwaring, Seeded in Singles

START NEXT WEEK

THE draw for the singles championship of the McGill University Badminton Club was released yesterday. Play will commence immediately. The trophy at stake is the Dreyer Cup, which was presented a few years ago by Dr. Dreyer, then a member of the faculty. It was won last year by Jack Black, whose graduation last spring leaves the way clear for the crowning of a new champion. Ken Gammel, Harry Lead, Ashton Kerr and John Mainwaring have been seeded, and are favoured to meet in the semi-finals. First round matches are as follows. These must be completed by Tuesday, March 26, or both players will be scratched. Each match is to be best two sets out of three.

First Round

Craven vs. Latour, Nelles vs. Mainwaring, Simpson vs. Kerr, Bussey vs. Boyd, Williams vs. Doubilet. Second round: Lead vs. Lynch, Gammel vs. winner, Doubilet and Williams. A general meeting has been called for Saturday afternoon, for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year and discussing plans. A full turnout is urged.

Reds Carry Lead Into Last Game

Defeated Rivals Here Last Saturday by 44-21 Score

TEAM HAS GOOD YEAR. DROPS SINGLE GAME

University of Montreal Closest Rivals in Loop

Carrying with them a substantial twenty-three point lead, the McGill Intermediate Basketball team journeyed down to Lennoxville this Saturday where they stacked up against the Bishops squad in their final game of the season and the last barrier between them and the Intermediate College title. The squads met last Saturday at the Montreal High School Gym where the Red team registered a pretty clean victory by a 44-21 score.

In the college loop the team has had a very successful season losing only one game, that one to the University of Montreal, who were their nearest rivals for the title. The college loop was composed of four teams, the two mentioned above, McDonald College and Loyola University. Bishop's College received a bye, playing the winners in a two game final. The U. of M. squad showed a much improved group of basketballers this season compared with previous years.

Fair Season in City Loop

In the City and District Intermediate league the team started off very well, but after a couple of games they ran into a slump which they were unable to drop until only about four games were left to play. They won these remaining games and continued their winning streak right up till the present and they are now at the peak of their form.

Prominent in the team's march to the finals was Frank Corrigan, who was nominated captain on the graduation of Bob Jeffreys to the Seniors. Corrigan played a steady game at guard and could always be counted on to sink a couple of baskets as well. Another star on the team is Sammy Greenblatt, one of the highest scoring forwards on the team. In the last game against Bishops, Sammy was top scorer with twelve points.

Schofield Rookie Star

Another forward who has been a great aid to the team is Bruce Scriven, whose floor play and passing gained him a couple of games with the Seniors this year. The best rookie on this year's squad is Tommy Schofield, who graduated from M.H.S. last year. His sterling shooting and excellent play making at centre was always a feature of every match.

Rutherford, who played at guard during the latter part of the season was another recruit who has made a big hit. His scoring ability marked him as a dangerous opponent. Conklin, a veteran from last season was another who was a big factor in the team's fine showing, as was also Levis, Wagner, Mislav and Small.

The squad is expected to win their game at Bishops although the home team should provide much sterner opposition. Lack of good opposition was very apparent in the play of the team. George "Rusty" Baird was the star of the team in their game here scoring eight points. Baird plays at guard and is the captain and coach of the purple squad. The McGill practice takes place this Wednesday at 5:00 p.m.

Soviet Union Bureau Gives Russian Films

First Showing in Montreal March 29th in Strathcona Hall

For the first time in Montreal, Russian sound films will be shown in Strathcona Hall, at 8:30 p.m., on Friday, March 29th. The pictures, "Diary of a Russian Worker" and "A Day in Moscow," have superimposed English titles.

The "Diary of a Russian Worker" depicts the tragic and heroic personal drama which often underlies the gigantic projects of the Five Year Plan, and woven into the story are actual events and real facts. "A Day in Moscow" is a graphic tour through the rejuvenated capital of the Soviet Union. It conclusively brings home to the spectator the realization that Moscow is a thriving, progressive, bustling metropolis.

you be travelling in other parts of the world? Wherever you plan to be, there will be S.C.M. camps and conferences which you can attend.

Watch the S.C.M. Notice Boards and the Canadian Student for announcements of conferences in Canada and in other countries.

CAMP

In order that accommodation may be arranged in time, those who plan to go to Spring Camp are urged to register as soon as possible. The cost of registration is TWO DOLLARS which is included in the total cost of the Camp ($10.00).

Those selling tickets for the dinner tonight are asked to get in touch with the office this morning.

SCIENTIFIC APPROACH

A psychiatrist sat at his desk one May.
His nurse came in and he heard her say,
"Mr. Joe College is waiting outside."
"Very well, show him in," the doc replied.

Poor Mr. College, he looked a wreck (The doc knew what was wrong in a sec).
His cheek was pale, and the doctor wise Saw circles like saucers surrounding his eyes.

"Oh! doctor," he said, "I am fading away—
I've lost ten pounds this month each day."

And the medical man with a serious

air

Noted the gray in Joe's dark hair.

"Oh! doctor, I'm young; do I have to die?"

"Of course you don't," was the wise reply.—

"For here's a prescription tried and true:

It's examinitis that's ailing you.

What you need is a rest in the open air

Five or six days quite free from care.

When exams are over it's just the thing

To go to the camp arranged each Spring

On Oolahwan's site by the S.C.M.

I promise a cure if you go with them.

And between you and me, you'll acquire some knowledge

Which you wouldn't get in a year in college.

And as for the cost, just listen to me.

You can go for less than the price of my fee."

Joe went, and much to the boy's surprise

On the first day the circles left his eyes,

On the second his cheeks grew rosy

and red,

On the third his hair grew dark on his head,

And by the end of the fifth day, true,

He returned to his home much better than new.

And the moral of this as you've probably guessed is go north, all students, don't "Go designated as favouring the abolition of the McGill Annual.

that every effort should be made to avoid such a drastic measure as the abolition of the Annual. This book is a permanent year-by-year history of the student activities of McGill University and, for this reason, if for no other, should never be allowed to fall into discard as long as it is in any way possible to continue its publication.

I must point out, however, that the active support and co-operation of the student body in general is essential to this end, and I trust that such support and co-operation will be forthcoming now that the seriousness of the situation has been brought to the attention of the students.

Thanking you for the publication of this letter,

I am yours truly,

A. M. MINNION.

Dear Sir:

In regard to the sale of the McGill Annual, I have always felt that the Board, although good editors, were poor salesmen. The Student body and the freshmen in particular cannot be expected to sign away $4.00 of their own accord when many of them find it too much trouble to mark a ballot sheet. We are all inclined to put matters off until it is too late, and then decide that next year will do.

I would like to suggest that the whole matter be considered in a different light. How many people would buy a daily every morning if it were not compulsory to pay for them at the beginning of the year? I do not mean by this that the Annual should be made compulsory, if the freshmen coming into college were made to understand that $4.00 of their Caution Money would pay for the Annual, and that, if they did not want one, they must hand their name to the Annual board before a certain date, say November 10th it would change the whole attitude from that of a sale to a custom.

In this way the board would know definitely by November 10th how many Annuals were sold, and could regulate the cost of publication accordingly.

Perhaps the student will be annoyed at the end of the year to find that he can only collect $6.00 of his Caution Money because he forgot to give his name in; but when he receives his Annual he will realize that he has profited by his negligence.

I would suggest that this be tried next fall, and if by November 10th the Board find that they are not getting enough support, it will not be too late to abolish the Annual.

Yours sincerely,

SHIRLEY STEVENSON.
